WATER PURIFICATION SOLUTIONS FOR OIL AND GAS WASTE WATER IS NOW GLOBAL

Houston, TX (October 3, 2011) - Cardno ENTRIX, an Environmental and Natural Resource Management Consultancy, today announced an agreement with Energy Water Solutions (EWS), a global water company that owns and operates Produced Water purification facilities. The agreement will have Cardno ENTRIX responsible for the sales, implementation and support of EWS technology into key markets in Latin America.

Cardno ENTRIX now has the exclusive distribution rights to market and engineer solutions using the technology and systems of EWS which will allow water generated from produced water plants to be used for beneficial social and environmental uses.

Cardno ENTRIX has identified several critical water needs including the potential for utilizing Produced Water from oil and gas exploration as an ideal source of beneficial water.

"We are delighted to be able to have such key technology available to us in Latin America" said Edgar Uribe, Director of Latin American Operations for Cardno ENTRIX. "This meets our business goals to work with our clients in developing opportunities that we have identified, and, also meets key social goals we have set for ourselves in providing options to assist our clients and their constituents in providing fresh and new water sources"

"The expansion of EWS's relationships with companies with the reputation and capabilities of Cardno ENTRIX is a significant step in making the EWS water purification technology available globally. We have a solid business focus and share a common social conscious with the Cardno/ENTRIX team and are enthusiastic about presenting our joint solutions to the marketplace" said Abe Shasha, President, International Business Development at EWS.
